What I think is special about EAHIL	The possibility to collaborate and learn, from and with, information specialists from all over Europe and together create opportunities for change and development of the field.
What I expect to contribute to EAHIL Council	My experience from teaching and tutoring information literacy to medical students and researchers as well as my work with online education and pedagogical development. My special interest in (norm) critical theory in relation to pedagogy and health sciences.
What I think are the most important issues for European health information professionals in 2019-2022	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Broadening and developing the teaching in information literacy with special regards to the digital environment. Supporting students in developing a scientific approach and critical thinking.</li> <li>• Promoting and working for health equality - Reaching out with health information, facilitating health literacy through online education and open access to information.</li> </ul>
My one-line statement for my election campaign	Curious, engaged and keen to collaborate with colleagues from all over Europe
